RYANAIR TO LAUNCH NEW PRIVATE JET FOR HIRE

News / Airlines, Business aviation

LOW-COST AIRLINE Ryanair has announced that it is set to launch its own private jet charter.

The Boeing 737-700 plane will be available for corporate and group hire.

Far from the bolt-upright economy seating you might associate with the budget airline's services around Europe, this for-hire service will come with a touch of luxury.

The plane contains 60 business class reclining leather seats.

Fine dining facilities will also be on hand if requested, with a Ryanair pilot and cabin crew manning the plane.

Speaking about the new service, the company's head of communications Robin Kiely said:

More than 25 million business travellers fly with Ryanair every year, choosing our low fares, unbeatable on-time performance, and Europe's largest route network, along with the benefits of our Business Plus service. Now, business and group travellers can also enjoy the benefits of © 2015-2026 50SKYSHADES.COM — Reproduction, copying, or redistribution for commercial purposes is prohibited.

Ryanair’s corporate jet service.

10 MARCH 2016

SOURCE: THE JOURNAL
ARTICLE LINK:
https://ids.50skyshades.com/news/airlines/ryanair-to-launch-new-private-jet-for-hire

© 2015-2026 50SKYSHADES.COM — Reproduction, copying, or redistribution for commercial purposes is prohibited.