"We see Russia as a key market for future growth . Buyers are mostly interested in medium and large business jets. We are confident that the range of featured Bombardier Challenger and Global aircraft families will meet needs of the Russian market. We have strengthened our service network in the region to provide a high level of support to our customers ", - commented Bombardier representative.

A little bit more about aircraft, which will be presented at the exhibition. Back in October 2014, Bombardier announced a new Challenger business jet family member. Challenger 650, based at the 605-th model in partnership with NetJets, got new avionics , new interior and more powerful engines.
