

SHANGHAI-MOSCOW FLIGHT RETURNS DUE TO MEDICAL EMERGENCY

News / Airports / Routes

China Eastern Airlines (MU) flight MU591 from Shanghai to Moscow returned to Shanghai Pudong International Airport (PVG) after reaching Mongolia's airspace today due to a passenger onboard suffered illness, according to a source familiar with the matter.

The Moscow-bound aircraft is estimated to take off from Shanghai at 11:55 a.m. and its actual takeoff time was 12:31 p.m. with over half a hour's delay. As a passenger suffered illness and felt uncomfortable, the flight crew member communicated with the patient's family and decided to divert back to Shanghai from over Mongolia's airspace.

The Registration B-2566 B767-300 aircraft has landed in Shanghai Pudong International Airport at 8:23 p.m., according to VeryZhun, China's leading flight status provider.

12 SEPTEMBER 2015

SOURCE: WCARN

ARTICLE LINK:

<https://ids.50skyshades.com/news/airlines/shanghai-moscow-flight-returns-due-to-medical-emergency>